If Gossip We Must

BY "NINA."

I wonder why it is that a reporter will always describe the women's clothes and never the men's! Yet they take just as much trouble as we do. If not more. A man takes hours to choose a tie, goes into terrible trouble to find a pair of socks which will match his tie, or the shirt which will match his socks. I was at Macintosh's the other day, ordering pyjamas for my husband, and was watching a young Naval Officer I know, choosing a hat. I think he tried on about a hundred. With every single one of them he looked at himself in the mirror, walked towards it, turned back, lifted the hat up, put it on again, turned it up at the back, then turned it down, inspected his profile, and so on. I was terribly amused, and don't see why all these efforts should be totally ignored and unobserved. I don't see why we should not describe men's clothes. I don't see why I wouldn't say, for instance, that at the Races last Saturday Captain Arthur Allan and Commander I. Bockett-Pugh looked very smart and wintry in dark blue suits, that Captain MacLean was just as smart in light Palm Beach, that Squadron Leader, P. C. Wood's cap was worn at the very correct angle, that Mr. D. D. McKay in white flannel trousers and thick brown coat had that particular American chic, and that Mr. Jack Jordan was wearing his brown felt hat as all men ought to wear theirs.

Mrs. R. H. Charles snapped at the Races.

But I had better not continue this description; it will bore women and men will only laugh and tease the ones whose names I've mentioned. I think therefore, that six victims are enough, and let me describe the ladies instead. Gosh! they were lovely! Mrs. G. L. Hill, all in green, with that lovely complexion of hers, looked like a Dresden China figure. Mrs. D. D. McKay, another very smart American young lady, was in navy blue and white. Mrs. Robin Gordon was also in blue and white.

with an adorable cerise hat. I saw her chatting to Mr. Jack Jordan and Ann Dodwell, who looked sweet in a blue ensemble. Little Mrs. F. W. Webb was in brown with a brown and orange hat which thoroughly suited her. Mrs. J. H. Taggart had the loveliest ensemble I've seen for a long time. It was grey with marvellous grey fur trimming the three quarters length sleeves. The hat was purple. Mrs. Bill Stanton was in grey with a jockey shaped white beret. Grey must be a fashionable colour as lovely Mrs. Beck was also in grey. How pretty she is and always very smart! I adore that striped frock with tiny purple sleeves which she wears at the Hong Kong Hotel for dancing. I would give all my dresses to have that only one! Mrs. Tam Pearce, in brown and yellow, looked radiant with joy when leading in her poney Trentbridge which won the Hong Kong St. Leger. Mrs. Gordon Mackie had also the pleasure of leading Brechin in after his victory in the Shum Chun Handicap, and Mrs. G. G. N. Tinson saw her De Minimis get a place. She looked sweet in Navy blue and so well in printed taffetas the other evening at a dance for the Sailors and Soldiers, which, thanks to her, was a huge success. Lots of pretty girls had come to help her. I noticed Betty Fair in a blue printed frock, Beryl Fair in white, Helen Boyd in pale green, Jean Boyd in beige, Pat Masters in a flowered mouseline frock with black velvet coatlet, Eileen Stubbings in printed crepe georgette trimmed with black lace, and Norreen Cooper in yellow with a brown velvet sash. When I look at her or at other pretty things like Mrs. Hill, Mrs. MacLean or Mrs. Butler, why haven't all women been made beautiful and what have we done, we, the ugly ones to be ugly! Still I better not talk about it, it's much too sore a subject, and here is an amusing story. A couple who are leaving the Colony very shortly, didn't know what to back in the last race, last Saturday. After perusal of the programme, they decided on Stickypast. It was and paid well. But alas! if that's the way I think I'll back Disorderly Conduct next time!

Au revoir everybody!

THE RACING

Last Saturday the favourites had a good time, and in consequence the tote paid mostly small dividends, even the double only paid a little over $30.

In the second race there was an upset. Night Star starting hot favourite and finished in the pack. He started on the outside, and his jockey preferred to keep him there taking all the bends wide. Going up the back stretch, the second time, Night Star was driven up the hill, with the result that when challenged on the run home he faded away and was unplaced.

At the fifth race there was a certain amount of trouble at the gate. Jingle ran into the gate, and his jockey was scragged and unshipped. The race was eventually started with the flag. Had the starter let up the gate it would have saved the gate as well as the jockey. The process was reminiscent of one's first term at school, where before becoming a fully-fledged member of the school, one had to submit to being tossed in a blanket. The only difference being that on Saturday our starter, after the jockey had been tossed up in the air forgot to catch him as he came down.

A ROTARY CLUB FOR NANKING

International Leaders in Association

Nanking, Oct. 27. Preparatory steps have been taken for the early inauguration of the Nanking Rotary Club. In China, Rotary Clubs have been organized in Peking, Hangchow, Shanghai, Tainan, and Foochow. With the Chinese Government making its capital in Nanking, and many former Rotarians coming to this city to join either Government offices or various business interests here, the Rotary International, as well as many prominent local people, felt the necessity of a Rotary Club in Nanking. Mr. Douglas C. Howland, secretary for Rotary International, Eastern Asia section, therefore came to Nanking recently to take up this matter with former Rotarians and those who are interested in the movement.

It was decided to elect an organising committee of five to prepare a list of possible members of the new club and another committee of three to look into the question of the constitution and by-laws. The organising committee consists of Dr. Yen Te-ching, Mr. W. A. Lewis, Mr. R. S. Hall, Mr. M. H. Pan, and Mr. Thomas Chao; while the other committee includes Dr. Y. G. Chen, Dr. H. H. Love, and Mr. M. S. Okachi. The two committees are expected to conclude their work within two weeks, when Mr. Howland returns from Hankow, where he also will make arrangements for the organisation of a Rotary Club. After a conference between Mr. Howland and the members of the two committees, the new club formally will be inaugurated.—Reuter.

PRESERVED APPLE GINGER

Peel 2 lbs. good sound apples and cut them in fairly thick pieces. Make a syrup of 3 lbs. loaf sugar and 2 breakfast cups of water. Boil until quite clear, then put in the apples and boil until transparent. Add 1 oz. es-

PILLOWS AND COLOUR

If you can't buy new slip covers and draperies, remember that a few colourful, inexpensive sofa pillows will go far toward freshening up your home. You can make them yourself. Try and have the colours blend with, but not match, some of your chairs or your over drapes.

sence of ginger—Put into Jars and tie down.

Helpful Suggestions

One way to simplify laundering of short puffed sleeves is to put snaps on the elastic that holds them. Remove the elastic while washing and ironing the frock and then snap on the elastic that holds them into place when it is to be worn.

Fish may not be "brain food," as the saying goes, it is rich in proteins, furnishes phosphorus and iodine and—in the case of the fat kinds—vitamins A and D.

Discard the old notion that fish and milk are not good together, they advise. One of the best ways to prepare fish steaks is to bake them in milk.

When a low budget means less meat for the family, use more beans and peas. They have a protein content more nearly like that in lean meat, milk and cheese than other vegetables. If there is no meat for dinner, baked beans, bean soup or plain boiled beans will help to fill the gap.

If your velvet evening dress has become crushed or mussy, hold the wrinkled part over a basin of very hot water with the lining side next to the water. This treatment will make the velvet even and smooth.

A part of scissors is best for cutting up lettuce so that it is very fine, halving marshmallows, dicing celery or cutting up raisins for the batch of cookies.

If you are having trouble making your windows go up or down, here's a trick that may help. Rub paraffin on the sash cords and they'll probably work easier.

If you're making fruit jelly and have difficulty in keeping the fruit from gathering in one spot remember that of you will put the fruit in the jelly just before it hardens it will be properly distributed. And never use fresh pineapple in fruit jelly.

Fresh orange juice poured over diced fruits makes a delicious summer cocktail.

If you dip a tomato in very hot water or place it on a fork and hold it over a gas flame, you will have no difficulty in removing the skin.

An attractive salad for a party can be made by mixing grape juice in cream cheese and dotting the fruit or lettuce with these little balls of festive looking cheese.

A mixture of sugar and water boiled together makes a good syrup for sweetening frozen desserts. But always remember that too sweet a mixture will not freeze.

FRICASSED SWEETBREADS

If they are uncooked, cut into thin slices, let them simmer in a rich gravy for three quarters of an hour, add a well beaten egg, two tablespoonfuls of cream and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley; stir all together for a few minutes and serve immediately.

Short Bread Biscuits

Ingredient: — 4 ozs. Simpsons flour 2 ozs. rice flour, 4 ozs. butter — 2 ozs. Castor sugar, pinch salt. Sift the flour, rice flour and salt. Rub in the butter very lightly with the finger tips, while doing this, constantly lift the hands in and out of the basin to let in the air. Add the sifted sugar and press into a ball. No liquid is required, turn out on a board lightly dusted with flour and roll till smooth. Roll out 1/4 inch thick and cut into rounds with a cutter. Lay on a lightly floured tin and prick right through with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven till golden brown then cool on a sieve. While still hot dust with castor sugar. Keep in air tight tin. Can be toasted before serving in a very cool oven.

PERFECT HEELS

Lane, Crawford and Gordons carry some fine makes. Excellent fittings and chic—call there for your next pair of shoes.

There are some most attractive browns, too. Richly coloured and mellow looking even when they are new, they promise a greater depth of tone with time, and polishing.

The point about these models is their neatness of line and the excellence of their heel fitting. Unless the heel of the shoe fits you snugly round the back and sides you cannot hope to walk well or in comfort. As you step with a loose heel your foot slips forward into the shoe and throws your whole body out of alignment, quite apart from that ungainly appearance of the gap at the sides.

Certain firms now thoroughly realise this and it is often possible to have a ready-to-wear shoe treated so that it will really fit.

Care Of Your Hands

So many women are spoiled by lack of attention to their hands. Every person should set aside half an hour or more for a regular daily manœuvre. It is not so easy for most of us to spend this much time but even a few minutes every day will work wonders.

"The first thing to remember in caring for the hands is to dry them thoroughly after washing. Inattention to this is responsible for most of the rough and reddened hands one sees. Then get into the habit of using a hand-cream or lotion a few times a day. Keep a jar or bottle handy."

"Then once a week rub cold cream—the ordinary face kind—into your hands. Rub it in well and interlace the fingers to work the cream into the knuckles."

"It is quite easy to reduce enlarged knuckles by gentle massage of the fingers from the tips to the hand, with a good cream, and hands which always will look red can be whitened by holding them up in the air for ten minutes or so every day."

"These are the simplest ways to keep the hands in good shape. And don't forget that they can be exercised. Shaking them hard from the wrists is good and opening and shutting quickly will be found excellent treatment."

A Light Luncheon

This is a delicious and out-of-the-way meal.

Oyster Fritters. Bread the oysters and let them lie all the morning in a marinade of the juice of three limes (or if you cannot get the limes, use one lemon), a sliced onion, a few peppercorns, and two or three cloves.

Turn them over now and then, and when the time comes dip them in some batter which has been standing as long as they have, and fry them golden.

Tomato Tart. Line a sandwich tin with unsweetened pastry, and fill this tin with some thickish Bechamel sauce, flavoured with cheese and tomato puree. Chop up some mushrooms, a few stoned olives, and chicken livers and cook these in butter with a little onion.

Skin and core some smallish tomatoes, stuff them with this mixture, and arrange them in the sauce. Sprinkle them well with browned breadcrumbs, and bake the whole thing in oven.

Stuffed Brioche. Buy some little brioche from the pastrycook's. Make some confectioner's cream (creme patissiere), flavoured with coffee, grill some hazel nuts and crush them lightly. Mix them with the cream.

Cut off the tops of the brioche, scoop out their insides, fill them with the cream, and put on their lids again, a little jauntily, perhaps.

TRAFFIC IN WOMEN

Wife Of Hong Kong Professor Indicts Far Eastern Condition

BRUTALITY IN FILMS ALSO CRITICISED

(Special "Air-Mail" Service)

London, Oct. 18. The Dowager Lady Numburnholme, who has been elected as president of the National Council of Women for the next two years is the daughter of the late Lord Lincolnshire, and has, like both her parents always been interested in public affairs.

On behalf of the National Vigilance Association, Lady Numburnholme moved at today's meeting at Torquay of the National Council of Women a resolution asking the Government to support the draft protocol drawn up by the Advisory Committee of the League of Nations against traffic in women and children, which remove the age limit of protection from the convention in all cases where the traffic is of an international character. She said that the proposed convention would prevent women of whatever age, being moved with or without their consent for an immoral purpose from one country to another or from a mother country to her colonies or protectorates.

Lady Numburnholme said she had for thirty years worked as a member of the Hull National Vigilance Society and had always been passionately anxious to stop the horrors of this traffic which, as the wife of a shipowner, she knew existed in the ports.

Mrs. Abbott, on behalf of the Association for Moral and Social Hygiene, moved an amendment urging the Government to defer acceptance of the protocol. She said it was not going to stop the traffic in women; it would be evaded. The protocol explicitly condemned traffic in foreign women, and implicitly it did not condemn traffic in women within their own country.

REGULATIONS EVADED.

The amendment was seconded by Mrs. Forster, from Hong-Kong, who shocked the conference by accounts of what the traffic was doing in the Far East. She contended that the traffickers had found means of evading all regulations, and she doubted whether the new convention would be effective. The principal factor in the traffic was the brothel; therefore the most effective remedy was the abolition of licensed or recognised houses.

A Salvation Army delegate said she had been instructed to oppose the resolution, and Miss Neilans told the delegates that if they carried it they were in effect giving their sanction to national traffic in women.

Mrs. Pyke, of the Jewish Association for the Protection of Girls and Women, supported the resolution, and a representative of Tree Church women supported the amendment, which, after further debate was lost. An air of unreality was given to the vigorous two hours' debate, since the conference knew that the convention might already have been signed at Geneva. The resolution was carried by a large majority.

[The convention was signed at yesterday's final meeting of the League Assembly at Geneva.]

INCIDENTS IN FILMS.

Miss Eleanor Plumer, of the Public Morality Council, moved a resolution deploring the tendency in certain films shown during the past year to present incidents in which cruelties were apparently inflicted on human beings or on wild animals. Miss Plumer said it would be easy to condemn practices where cruelty could be proved to exist, but trick camera work and faked photographs played a large part in film production. She was concerned with the effect on the audience of pictures depicting cruelty. Elimination and amendments of such films were frequently made by the British Board of Film Censors before they were passed for public exhibition, but those alterations were not as drastic as an alert public opinion would wish.

She suggested that animal welfare societies might consider how best to co-operate with other countries in order to obtain the co-operation which was essential to prohibit the practice of training and using wild animals for film production. She understood that the resident of the British Board of Film Censors was calling a conference to discuss the whole question.

Referring to certain recently shown gangster film scenes dealing with foreign prison systems and other sensational or horrific films, Miss Plumer said, "We are convinced that the cumulative effect of these films is harmful or offensive. A popular film is seen by seven or eight million people. It is not made for a special audience but to have the widest possible appeal."

"Curiously enough, it gives people no thrill to watch others enjoying experiences which they themselves can easily obtain. Even the healthiest mentality is morbidly attracted by dreadful and hideous things. Do we want to encourage this tendency? It is advanced as an argument against opposing such films that the majority of the audience are quite unmoved by them. If this be true, which I doubt, it seems to me the most crushing indictment." The resolution was carried without debate.

CLAIM FOR RENT

PLAINTIFF

Dr. Chau Wai Cheung was the plaintiff in a claim before Mr. Justice Landsell yesterday afternoon in a case in which he claimed $80 rent in lieu of a month's notice in respect of the ground floor of No. 8 Li Kwan Avenue, from Mr. C. N. S. Burns.

The defendant claimed that he had a right to leave without notice as he had arranged with his landlord to do so, since he might be transferred to Canton at any time. He further stated that he had arranged to pay the rent in advance, so that he could leave whenever he liked.

Under cross-examination, however, defendant said the notice was to be waived only if he were transferred to Canton.

His Lordship pointed out that inasmuch as the defendant had not been transferred to Canton, he had to give the required notice. He gave judgment for Dr. Chau with cost.

Mr. F. H. Loseby appeared for Dr. Chau.

CLEANING UP

British Comedy—Of A
Vacuum Cleaner

The British film "Cleaning Up" must surely be the first in which all the laughs are due to a vacuum cleaner! Of course, there is George Gee at the other end of it, but it is really the cleaner that is responsible, and the cleaner that saves George from having to marry a singularly dull and uninteresting heiress.

The story is rather involved. George Gee is Tony Pumpford, son of a noble house; his father is hard up and goes to some trouble to arrange for Tony's marriage to an heiress. But the family motto is "No fear," and Tony replies with it. He goes off to get a job, and by sheer domination eventually lands one as salesman for the Mop-I-Tup Vacuum Cleaner Company. He starts off full of joy, but we see him going from door to door, getting less cheerful and more footsore every time he is turned away. At last he finds a sympathetic householder, who asks him to rest and bathe his feet. She turns out to be Marian Breat, a chorus girl on her way to stardom with the help of the backing provided by Tony's father and one Sir Rickaby Rudd. But the way is blocked by the singularly suspicious Lady Rudd, who insists on visiting the girl to convince herself that she really is happily married as Sir Rickaby swears. This is where Tony comes in, for he is persuaded to act the part of Marian's husband. But complications follow thick and fast, and in an endeavour to clear up an increasingly difficult situation Tony finds himself at the theatre, where he proceeds to demonstrate the famous vacuum cleaner. But the curtain goes up, the cleaner jams, and an enormous audience is acclaiming him as a brilliant comedian. He is promptly offered the job, which he accepts in exchange for an order for a dozen cleaners. But his father and Sir Rickaby are both at the theatre that night, and refuse to back the show. The manager is in despair, however the show is saved—the Mop-I-Tup people take it on instead, in return for the marvellous advertising it gives them, Tony's fortune is made.

Davy Burnaby as Lord Pumpford gives a polished performance, and Betty Astell is adequate as the chorus girl. Barbara Gott makes Lady Rudd a terrifying personage and one almost feels sorry for her unpleasant little husband. But there is really only one character in this film, and that is George Gee, and of course the vacuum cleaner!

"RACKETY RAX"

How The Cast Was Picked

Here is the way Al Walker cast the stellar array of comedians and comedienne for "Rackety Rax," the comedy-satire now playing at the King's Theatre.

Victor McLaglen as a sporting world racketeer who believes there are dollars by the million in college football and sets out to get his representative share.

Greta Nissen as McLaglen's screen sweetheart, a blonde in black who wears puce-coloured stockings and baby-talks her way into the love life of her associate.

Nell O'Day musical comedy stage favourite as a pretty and bright newspaper woman who fears she won't get a husband because her press-agent fiancé is always being put in the spot.

Allan Dinehart as a sanctimonious old faker who is graduated from being a racketeer's smooth-talking lawyer-fixer to the ideal post of Dean of Women at Canisius College.

Arthur Pierson as "Specs," a dynamic press agent; Vince Barnett, Hollywood's original "ribber" as comic bodyguard to a racketeer.

Allen Jenkins as "Mike Dumphy," executive executioner.

Stanley Fields as a football muscle-inner; Esther Howard as a combination of evangelist and sly fixer for her racketeer boss; Marjorie Beebe as a battling wife who doesn't like "sweeties," and Ivan Linow as "Tossilits," the human steam-roller.

"PADDY, THE
NEXT BEST THING"A Stage Star
Surrenders

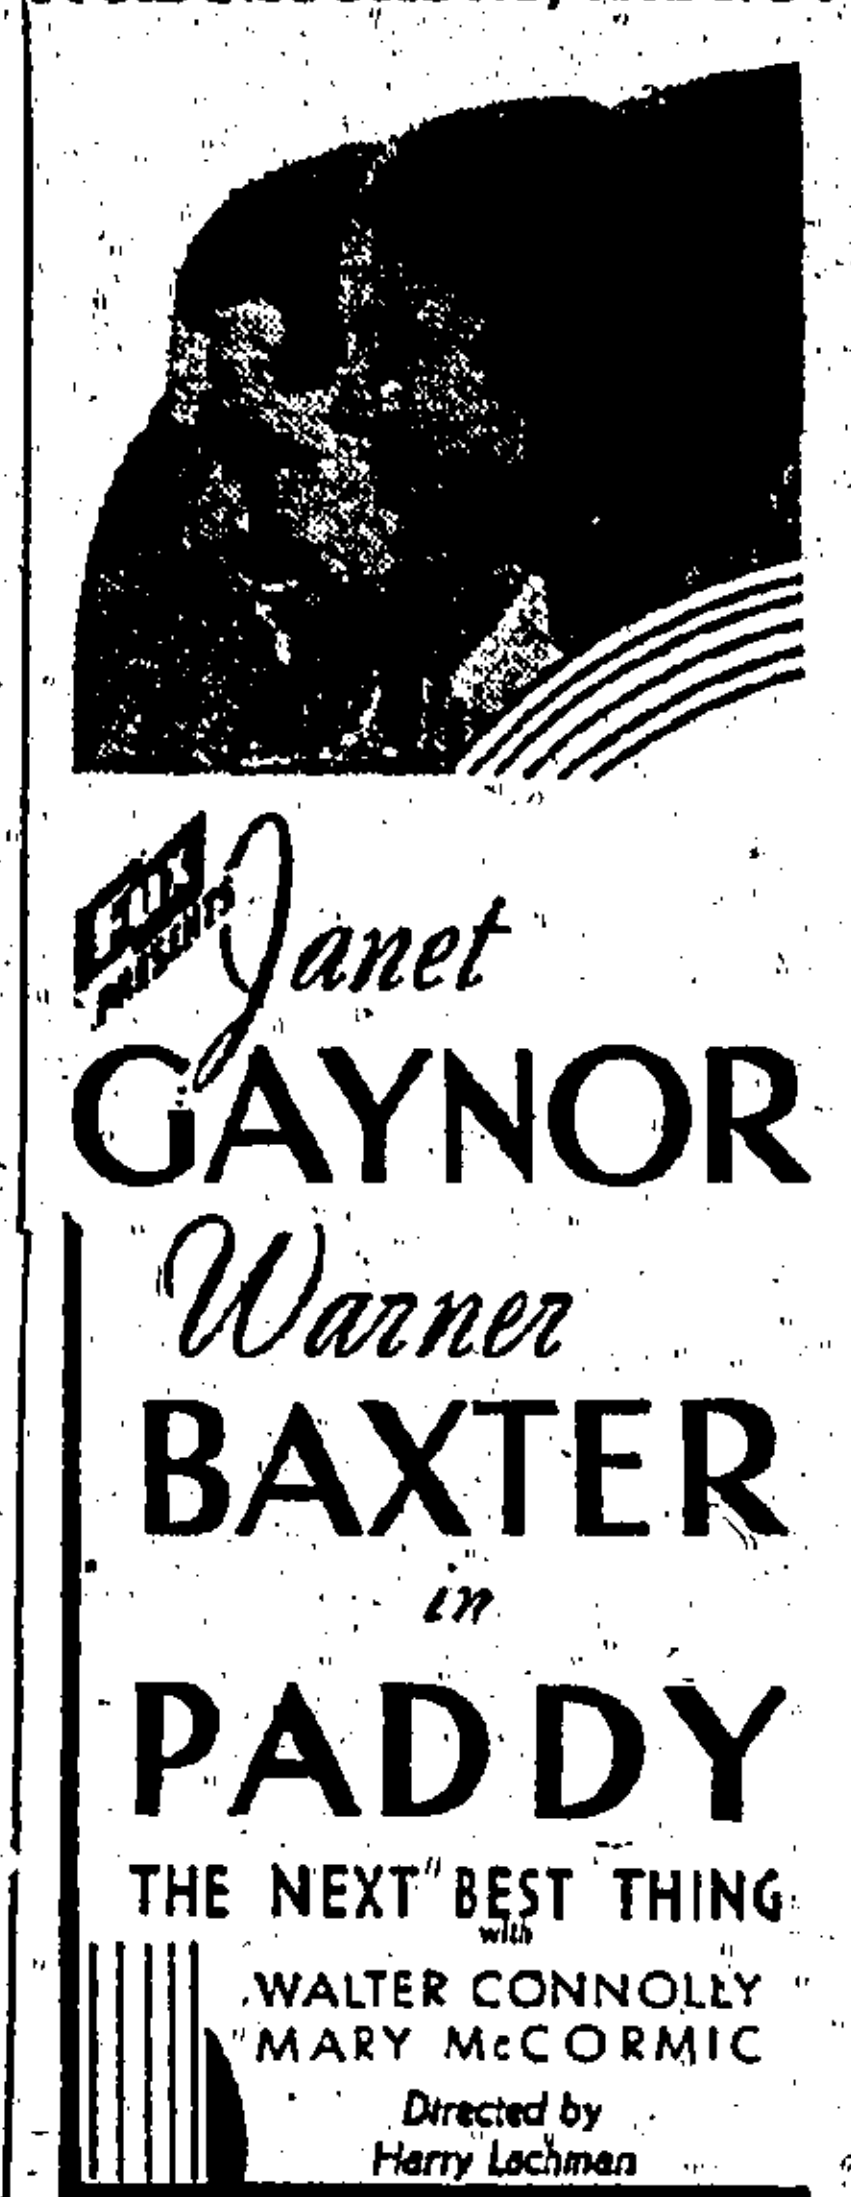

Walter Connolly, a famous America stage star and one of the last of the Broadway holdouts against pictures, has been borrowed from Columbia by Fox Film for the important role of "Major Adair" in "Paddy, The Next Best Thing."

Connolly is best remembered by playgoers for "With Helen Hayes, and the recent "The Late Christopher Bean." His contract permits only sixteen weeks of picture work each year.

Connolly made his screen debut in "Bitter Tea of General Yen." In explanation of his succumbing to movie entreaties, he laughingly asserts: "I was caught in a weak moment while in the hospital in New York, and signed a contract. His second portrayal was in "Washington Merry-Go-Round," and this definitely branded him as a picture thief. This was followed by "No More Orchids."

In "Paddy," Connolly portrays the beloved (if slightly dishonest) Irish gentleman who is the father of "Paddy," Miss Janet Gaynor.

With "Paddy" will be shown a special Fox Film Round the British Empire, in honour of Armistice Day.

NEXT CHANGE
From SATURDAY, 11th NOV.P. G. WODEHOUSE
& RALPH LYNN"Summer Lightning"
As A Film

"Summer Lightning" which is now showing at the Central Theatre is a team job in the biggest sense of the word.

Author of the story is that master of humorous writing, P. G. Wodehouse, famous on both sides of the Atlantic for the wit of his novels.

It was fitting that Ralph Lynn should be chosen to bring the character of Hugo Carmody to the screen, since the kind of humor typified by the B. & D. star is absolutely Wodehouse in its essence. They both trade in absurdity; both characterise the young man whose very faux pas amount, in spite of him and not because of him, to master strokes of genius.

The director who has moulded P. G. Wodehouse's material into film shape is Maclean Rogers, whose work on such Sydney Howard pictures as "The Major's Nest" and "Up for the Derby" has given powerful evidence of his ability, with comedy subjects.

"Summer Lightning" introduces Ralph Lynn as Hugo Carmody, secretary to Lord Emsworth. Being in love with Emsworth's ward, Millicent, Hugo conceives the brilliant idea of stealing the old man's prize pig, Empress, and posing as a hero by returning the animal later, so winning Emsworth's approbation. The theft takes place without any serious trouble—but the complications which subsequently ensue from this apparently simple act of knavery are uproariously funny. Suffice it to say that by a series of masterly blunders Hugo successfully achieves his plan, outwits his rivals and marries the girl.

Supporting the casts are Winifred Shutter, Dorothy Boucher, Eme Percy, Miles Malleon and Horace Hodges.

The Radio Sports Club met the University Hockey Team in a friendly match at 6 p.m. yesterday at the latter's ground. The game was keenly contested. Radio scored two goals in the first half, but failed to increase the score. In the second half, University scored in the second half through S. Reed, and strove hard to equalise. The final score being Radio-2; Varsity-1.

observer expert is based on his cold delight in killing. Pilot hates observer for his ruthlessness; observer hates pilot for his sensitiveness. It is when the observer discovers that the pilot has begun to crack under the strain that the story takes a new twist. March is cast as the pilot and Grant as the observer. Ours is another pilot, furnishes comedy interest.

MIDNIGHT MARY

A Murder Trial
Drama

The story opens at the trial of Mary Martin for the murder of a gangster and we listen to the end of the prosecution counsel's speech to the jury. While the jury considers its verdict, Mary sits in the recorder's office and there thinks over her life from her childhood to that moment. We learn that her mother died while she was nine and a little later she was sent to a reformatory school for a theft she did not commit. At sixteen, she and her friend Bunny, meet Leo, a gangster who uses the girls as look-outs and decoys. While Mary is playing her part in the preliminary arrangements for the holding up of a gambling club she meets Tom Mannering, a young aristocrat who with his friend Sam is enjoying life to the full. A hit occurs in the hold-up and Tom, although aware of her connection with the gangster, hurries her away to his own home until the police have departed. After an exchange of ideas and mutual admiration, Mary begs Tom to help her to get an honest job, and after training in a secretarial school she is given a stenographer's post in his office. Some time later the young lawyer asks her to marry him and she is about to accept when a policeman recognises her and in order that Tom shall not be implicated in her arrest, she tells him that she was only "stringing him for a sucker." Mary does not give away her gangster friends and is presumably sentenced as an accessory because of her record. While in prison she learns of Tom's marriage to a society beauty and after her release, which is followed by a fruitless search for work, she returns to Leo. Leo is an extremely jealous protector and when she accidentally meets Tom at a night club sets out to put him on the spot. Unfortunately killing his friend Sam in error. Learning later of his mistake he is about to rectify it when Mary shoots him. At this moment the jury returns and delivers a verdict of "Guilty" but their proceedings are disturbed by the entrance of Tom Mannering who explains that she did it to save his life because she loved him. He demands a new trial with himself taking his place beside her in the dock and we are allowed to assume the usual ending, it being announced that his wife has decided to divorce him.

"THE EAGLE AND THE HAWK"Flying Thriller At Queen's

"The Eagle and the Hawk" story of two warring dynasties who become heroes under the stress of their hatred for each other, will be shown from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre.

Frederic March, Cary Grant, Carole Lombard and Jack Oake play the leading roles in the film, which is from a story by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings." Stuart Walker directed the production.

The story centres around a pilot in the Royal Flying Corps who handles his plane with exceptional brilliance and an observer equally as skilful with his guns. Together in the same plane they are an unbeatable combination, and one enemy ship after the other is outmanoeuvred by the pilot, sent crashing to the earth by the observer. Soon the pair are heroes, and decoration after decoration is pinned upon them.

But though they are the best of combinations in the sky they are the bitterest of enemies on the ground. The brilliance that makes the pilot expert is based on his casual, reckless attitude. The skill that makes the observer a pilot is based on his cold, ruthless determination to kill.

ECHOES OF 1859

43—Why Victoria Could Never Grow
And Prosper!

(Yesterday we gave an account of the mischief caused to Governor Davis in Hongkong by a former Colonial Treasurer, Mr. Montgomery Martin, who forwarded some "observations" on Hongkong to the Secretary of State for the Colonies. Below is the continuation of the article.)

Now for a few extracts from the enlightened, impartial, patriotic "observations." In physical aspect the island is described "as rising abruptly from the ocean particularly on the North face—there are a few narrow valleys and deep ravines, through which the sea occasionally bursts, or which serve as conduits for the mountain torrents; but on the North side of the island, especially where the town of Victoria is built, the rocky ridge approaches close to the sea, and it was only by hewing through the ridge that a street or road could be made to connect the straggling town of Victoria. Here and there on the tops of some hills, or along the precipitous slopes of the mountains, some houses have been constructed; but the rugged, broken and abrupt precipices, and deep rocky ravines, will ever effectually prevent the formation, at Victoria, of any concentrated town, adapted for mutual protection, cleanliness and comfort.

"After heavy rains the hills assume somewhat of a greenish hue, like a decayed Stilton Cheese—the mountain tops and sides presenting the appearance of a negro streaked with leprosy."

The Geological characteristics of the island contain the following:—
"The structure may be briefly described as consisting of decomposed coarse granite, intermixed with a red disintegrating Sandstone (?) crumbling into a stiff ferruginous looking Clay (!). Here and there are huge boulder stones which gun-powder will not blast. The granite is rotten and passing line dead animal and vegetable substances in a putrescent state, is evidenced from the crumbling of the apparently solid rock beneath the touch, and from the noisome vapour which it yields when the sun strikes fervidly on it after rain. This strata quickly absorbs any quantity of rain which it returns to the surface in the nature of a pestiferous mineral gas. Vast quantities of silt from the hills are being deposited along the shores of the Harbour, which owing to this circumstance and the rapid receding of the tide from this Coast, is becoming shallower every day. The greater extent of the bay has only four or five fathoms, and in the depth of the stream there is only six to seven. In no great interval of time the harbour of Hongkong will be too shallow in many places for large vessels."

As for the Climate, Mr. Martin's "observation" runs to the effect that "in the interval of rain, the vertical sun acts as an intense evaporating power, and a noxious steam or vapour rises from the fetid soil, yielding a gas of a most sickly and deleterious nature" which he describes can only be equalled on the coast of Africa whilst "at Macao, only forty miles West of Hongkong, Europeans may walk about the whole day in the month of July, when to do so at Hongkong would be attended with almost certain death. Neither Sepoys nor Chinese can endure the climate even so well as Europeans, whose stamina they do not possess. The Chinese deem it dangerous to experiment to prolong their abode in the island beyond a certain time."

SALT SMUGGLING IN KIANGSI

Many Tricks To Supply The Bandits

South Kiangsi, Oct. 13.
Recently in order to prevent salt from getting to the bandits the government took over the sale of all salt, and rationed every home in the city. As salt is very scarce in the bandit area, and they are willing to pay big prices for it there was a very great temptation to pit unofficial against official brains, and it has been most amusing to notice the different methods used to get past the soldiers guarding the gates. A man carrying a bamboo pole out of the city is an everyday occurrence. It is of course going to some bamboo worker's home to make chairs, etc., but the sentries noticed it passing each day and their suspicions were aroused. They watched closely and noticed that the man carried it as if it were extra heavy. There was a request to look at it, and when the man tried to lift it he was surprised to find it was almost as heavy as iron but when split open it was stuffed with salt.

Loads of rubbish were being carried out of the city, which again is a usual occurrence, but soon watchers were aware that there should not be so much coming. They determined to investigate the next lot and had an iron rod made with a sharp point. When this was thrust into the load of rubbish there was a sudden stop, and on turning out the loads a box was found in each full of salt.

Several people seemingly a family were found going out to the city fairly early one morning. They all seemed hot, and were stopped for examination, which revealed that they were wearing clothes filled with salt.

A small raft of bamboo was coming down the stream. The attention of officials standing by was attracted by the fact that the ends of each bamboo was closed with red earth. This led to an examination, whereupon it was found that each bamboo had its load of salt stored away inside.

THE AFFECTIONATE MOTHER

Again there were a few men carrying mosquito incense in long paper like enlarged cigarettes. No one takes much notice as it is the time of year for these things, but so many loads were passing every day, that an investigation was commenced that it was found that these covers were packed with salt instead of the usual sawdust and other things.

Mills for grinding rice are made of red clay packed tightly into bamboo baskets with teeth of bamboo at the bottom. These were being carried out of the city, but no one took any notice until they were passed, so often that suspicion was aroused. Investigation disclosed that there was only a very thin skin of red earth, and all beneath was salt.

But I think the following must take the prize. A woman near where we live made a cloth baby just about the size of a child of about two years. This was filled with salt and carried on the mother's back. The legs were visible and the worn boots tied thereon, plain for all to see. Thus the baby was carried through the city gate several times. She had been to the doctor, and the mother was singing to the baby as she walked. But she passed too often and the trick exposed.

Coffins have also been used and now unless the bearers have a note from the district head official no coffin can be carried out of the city without opening it at the gate. I am also told that when the funeral is a real one, there have been those who carried salt wrapped up in small bundles placed in the coffin with the body.

BURGLAR BUSY IN THE CITY

China Emporium
Robbed Of $1,300

By using a duplicate key, a burglar gained admittance into the city's latest department store, China Emporium, on Monday night, and stole goods valued at $1,300.

Entrance to the emporium was gained through a gate in Stanley Street, which was opened by means of a duplicate key. After passing through the gate, the burglar removed two panes of glass from an inner door which enabled a small size individual to creep through. Fortunately for the Emporium, all the valuables in the jewelry department had been locked up, and the burglar was unable to get anything more valuable than a number of cameras and fountain pens. In all 19 Kodaks were discovered missing as well as thirty-three fountain pens and pencils of different makes, also two bundles of ivory chopsticks.

The intruder also appeared to have gone over a case of pillowcases from which, however, he only extracted one.

The police are conducting their investigations at the moment, and so far no arrest has been made.

SAILORS FROM H.M.S. BERWICK

Give Good Show At Y.M.C.A.

"There's something about a sailor" and there is something about a navy entertainment that gives it a charm seldom rivalled in amateur theatricals. Die Bier Garden Bohemia, staged in the Y.M.C.A. last evening by the members of the Actor's Club of H.M.S. Berwick under the direction of A. K. Ledingham was one of the finest musical comedies produced in the Colony for a long time. Not only was the setting admirable, but the manner in which each artist was introduced was novel in the extreme.

To pick out any one individual member of the cast as the star performer would be well-nigh impossible, but a word of praise is due Mr. Boland, the female impersonator, who despite an injured tongue and lacerated jaw carried out his part. Mr. Boland was injured in Tuesday night's typhoon. The scene of the farce was a Bohemian Beer Garden in Heidelberg and the members of the cast represented patrons. Music was furnished by Royal Marine Band from the cruiser, under the baton of bandmaster Sturmer and the orchestra's performance astounded and delighted all of the two hundred odd members of the audience.

Die Bier Garden Bohemia is the first of the winter series of navy shows and if the standard remains as high throughout as it was last night, the cinemas will discover that they have strong competition in the men from the man-o-war.

Lecture By Major
Bagnold

An interesting lecture on "Explorations in Egypt and the Sudan" was delivered by Major R. A. Bagnold at the University last night. Mr. C. H. Lin presided. Among those present were Father G. Byrne, Prof. W. Brown, and Mr. G. W. Reeve.

The lecturer said that the Eastern part of the Sahara was called the Lybian Desert. The land was barren, and without life except occasional lizards that fed on seeds of plants along the coastal strip. It rained perhaps once in 30 or 60 years. How the oases derived their water was a mystery. Perhaps the water had reached them after travelling underground for a thousand miles from French East Africa.

Major Bagnold related a story how the desert was thought to be the home of a terrible old woman who turned everything to stone by her sight. He dwelt on his adventures in the desert by car (he steered with the help of compasses) from one oasis to another, and across curious, parallel, straight sand dunes. Now and again all over the desert one could find ancient tools and axes, which showed that there was a civilization in the Lybian Desert thousands of years ago. The lecturer also related briefly the history of discovery of the trade routes from Central Africa to the Mediterranean, across the Desert. He said that there was still a great part of the land to be explored. A hearty vote of thanks for the lecture was proposed by Father Byrne at the end of the lecture.

INTERPRETATION OF OPIUM ORDINANCE

Full Court Decision On Important Point

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF PRINCIPAL TENANT AT ISSUE

In the Full Court yesterday the Acting Chief Justice, (Mr. J. R. Wood) and the Puisne Judge, (Mr. R. E. Lindsell) gave their decision on an important point in connection with the construction of the amended opium ordinance.

The appeal was brought by the Crown to obtain a ruling on the point in issue against a decision of Mr. Butters, Kowloon Police Magistrate. The appeal was dismissed. Mr. Butters' decision being upheld.

Revenue Officer R. A. Trengrove's name appeared as prosecutor, but the Assistant Attorney General, Mr. J. A. Fraser, stated that he did not seek a penalty against Li Ha, the respondent, who was merely brought up as party to a test case.

The facts Reviewed.

The Chief Justice said:—The subsection under which the charge is brought reads as follows: "No person being the owner or occupier of any premises, or having, or acting or assisting in, the management or control thereof, shall knowingly suffer any person to use the same as an opium divan."

In the Case Stated the Magistrate has set out the following facts as proved on the part of the Appellant: (1) that the ground floor of 280 Tai Nam Street was rented by the Respondent for $27.00 a month; (2) that the Respondent had two months previously to her alleged offence sublet two rear cubicles (the second and third cubicles) on the floor to Hui Chim at a rental of $18.00 a month; (3) that she herself retained for her own accommodation the remainder of the floor, which included a shop and one cubicle; (4) that on the date of the alleged offence the second and third cubicles were being used by Hui Chim as an opium divan.

The Magistrate further found that the second and third cubicles were the ordinary type of Chinese tenement cubicles with open doorways opening out to a corridor adjoining the second and third cubicles. On these facts the Magistrate held that the offence charged had not been established.

Magistrate Upheld.

In my opinion the Magistrate reached the right decision.

In order to establish the charge the Prosecutor must prove (1) that the defendant was at the material time the "occupier" of the "premises" used as an opium divan; (2) that she knew herself of the use of such premises for the purpose of an opium divan; and (3) that she suffered some person so to use the premises.

As to the first point, the word "occupier" has not been defined in the Ordinance. It is distinguished in the section from the word "owner." The ordinary meaning of the word is a "tenant in occupation." The Respondent was the tenant of a whole floor. She was a tenant in occupation merely of that portion of the floor which she retained for herself, namely, the shop and one cubicle. The tenant in occupation of the two cubicles which were used as an opium divan was her sub-tenant, Hui Chim. A contract of tenancy between the Respondent and Hui Chim existed under which the Respondent had granted to Hui Chim the sole right of occupation of the second and third cubicles. The Respondent no longer had any right of access to those cubicles.

Englishman's House his Castle.

The maxim of the English common law that an Englishman's house is his castle applies here irrespective of the size of the premises occupied. A sub-tenant who rents a cubicle or a bed-space has as much right to resist interference and intrusion as the tenant of a single floor or of a whole building. It has been argued for the Appellant that the use of the word "premises" in the section as distinguished from the word "place" indicated an intention in the Legislature to place upon the principal tenant of a floor (as also upon the owner of a building) a responsibility for the offence of keeping an opium divan has been brought to his notice, of controlling the behaviour of persons present in respect of this offence, and that this responsibility should exist irrespective of whether such persons are guests or sub-tenants. It was further submitted that the Courts of the Colony would assume judicial knowledge of a practice under which a principal tenant exercised a tutelage over all persons on his floor, and that the Courts would therefore favour this interpretation of the Ordinance. This contention, in my view, is an elaborate and ingenious way of inserting into the section which its language does not warrant.

It would have been quite easy to provide that where a portion of any premises is used as an opium divan the principal tenant receiving rent in respect of premises so used should, unless he could prove his innocence, be liable to a penalty. Further, speaking for myself, I have no judicial knowledge that a principal tenant of a floor in this Colony exercises any supervision over the conduct of a sub-tenant. In the present case the occupier of the premises within the meaning of the section was Hui Chim and was not the Respondent.

Question of Knowledge

The Prosecutor further did not in my opinion, discharge the onus lying upon him of showing that the Respondent knew of the use by Hui Chim of the second and third cubicles as an opium divan. Whether the Magistrate held that this particular onus had not been discharged is not very clear in the Stated Case. A guilty knowledge will include three elements: (1) that the premises were used as the resort of persons; (2) that such persons came to smoke opium there; and, (3) that they either bought their opium there or paid a fee for the use of the premises for opium smoking. It seems to me that the mere presence of the principal tenant upon the premises is an insufficient ground to find all these features of guilty knowledge established against her. Finally, it was incumbent upon the Prosecutor to show that the Respondent had suffered the use of those premises as an opium divan. The word "suffer" seems to me here to mean something more than to remain passive and inactive. It suggests that the person against whom the charge is brought has after illegal act of keeping the opium divan had been brought to her knowledge, omitted to intervene effectively to prevent the act by an interference which was open to her without a breach of the law. It has not been shown that she could have taken any action to obstruct the keeper of this opium divan. Had she herself entered these cubicles she would have been liable for a trespass. In my view, therefore, this appeal must be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Lindsell

Mr. Justice Lindsell said:—I concur. It is hardly to be doubted that the intention of the Legislature in amending Section 15 of the Opium Ordinance, 1932 (No. 7 of 1932) by the addition of a new subsection (Subsection 3) was to impose liability on every householder and tenant who could be shown to have countenanced the use of any part of his premises as an opium divan. The amendment has not, however, given effect to the intention.

The word "occupier" can mean no more than the person in actual physical occupation, and it cannot in my mind be maintained that the principal tenant of a floor of a Chinese tenement is in occupation of the whole of that floor when he or she has sublet a part or parts thereof to others.

I agree that the appeal must be dismissed.

MR. C. B. R. SARGEANT'S "VINTAGE" RECORDS

Under the simple heading of "A Recital of Gramophone Records" a most interesting item will be broadcast from Z.B.W. on Friday 10th November at 9 p.m.

We are exceedingly fortunate in having in Hong Kong a keen music lover in the person of the Headmaster of the Diocesan Boys' School, Mr. C. B. R. Sargeant, who has built up a library of beautiful gramophone records, some of which are of real "vintage" quality and unobtainable by the ordinary listener in Hong Kong.

Mr. Sargeant will operate the turntable himself and will give running commentaries on some of the records.

Many listeners will remember similar delightful recitals given by Christopher Stone in London.

SECRETS OF THE HEART!

Mysteries That Still Baffle Science

LECTURE AT THE H.K. UNIVERSITY

What is it that causes the heart to function even after the supply of oxygen is stopped? This question was one of several that were asked at an interesting lecture delivered to the University Medical Society yesterday evening by Dr. K. Mackenzie, M.Sc., Ph.D., who addressed the students on "The Heart—its dynamics and energy requirements."

Dr. Mackenzie had spent some years in research work on the heart and lungs at the University College, Oxford, and his lecture was based mainly on this research.

Among many interesting statements was one which was to the effect that under conditions of exercise, the heart output was some fifteen times more strenuous than when the heart was at rest. That was why the heart was different from the ordinary mechanical contrivance. The quantity of blood pumped through the heart per minute while under exercise was more than the quantity of water that could be drawn from a fair size water tap over the same period.

The heart could not be worked at full pressure for any length of time even though the muscular work could stand up to it. The heart muscle behaved very different from ordinary muscle, but the medical profession was still largely in the dark about its mechanism.

One interesting result of his experiments on the heart had been to find that lactic acid, which had hitherto been considered a form of poison was food for the heart.

The lecturer said that while oxygen was the primary thing which enable a heart to function, glycogen and lactic acid also played an important part, and he hinted at the possibility of some other substance still undiscovered which enable the heart to derive its energy while the supply of oxygen was temporarily stopped. Many experiments have been tried, but to date, nothing has been found which would give any definite clue to the identity of this substance.

CANTON ICE COMPANY'S MEETING

Rammifications Of Cholera Restrictions

RECEIPTS VISIBLY LOWER

Presiding at the twelfth annual meeting of the Hongkong and Canton Ice Manufacturing Company, Mr. T. E. Pearce said that the restrictions imposed by the Canton authorities following the cholera outbreak in 1932, were still affecting the income of the Company although the restrictions had been removed in August last year.

Supporting the Chairman were Messrs. R. Gordan, S. H. Dodwell, Ho Kom Tong and Lau Yick Cheuk (Directors), and Mr. J. D. Thomson (Secretary). Shareholders present were Messrs. T. J. Bridge, Chan Nai Pau, D. K. Kharras, and Chan Yu Nam.

Addressing the meeting, the Chairman said:—Gentlemen,

Before I proceed with the ordinary business of the Meeting I wish to make special reference to the death of our late Director, Mr. Leung Yan Po. Mr. Leung Yan Po was one of the Company's original Directors and served continuously on the Board until his death. Mr. Leung Yan Po had the Company's best interests at heart and his views were at all times much appreciated.

"My predecessor when addressing you a year ago, referred to the severe setback we had suffered in the latter part of our 1931/1932 trading year as a result of the Cholera outbreak in Canton and I regret to say that in submitting these accounts to you to-day I must do the same. Although the restrictions imposed by the Authorities were removed in August 1932 the effects have been far-reaching and are still being felt. In addition there has been a certain amount of propaganda during the summer months for the purpose of instilling into the younger generation the dangers accompanying the consumption outside of their homes of drinks and other delicacies for which ice is used as a cooling medium.

I am glad to say, however, that business, though still disappointing in volume, has been steady throughout the year with a gradual swing towards improvement. It may interest you to know that whereas sales fell to the extent of 66 per cent. in the first half of the year i.e. August/January as compared with the previous year an increase of over 8 per cent took place in the second half of the year as compared with the previous year. It must not be forgotten of course that it was during the latter half of 1932 that we suffered most severely as a result of the Cholera epidemic.

THE ACCOUNTS.

Turning to the Accounts you will note that the balance transferred from Working Account amounts to $21,905.69. This is $11,000.00 short of last year's figure and, as you will understand, is the direct result of reduced output. I may say that the actual reduction of Revenue on Ice sales amounted to $20,300,—whereas, on the other hand, owing to the number of standing charges to be met, expenditure only dropped to the extent of $9,000.

I might mention that the General Managers have again waived their claim to the $400,—per month for Office expenses provided in the Company's Articles of Association. The only remuneration paid to them is the commission shown on Profit and Loss Account, this year amounting to $973.18. You will note that your Directors have again agreed to their fees being halved.

During the year the sum of $10,315.80 was expended on Repairs and Renewals and as this is larger than usual, I feel that an explanation is due to you. Of the aforementioned sum $3,000,—was spent on new belting while $5,500,—was spent on our Buildings. The remaining $1,800,—was spent on repairs to machinery. As you will see both Property and Machinery Accounts have been depreciated to the extent of $5,000.

I am glad to say that despite the fact that the plant has been in use since 1921 it is still in good condition and is operating to satisfaction.

The net result of the year's working shows that a loss of $1,825.32 has been incurred. This sum, as you will see, has been deducted from the balance of $3,718.01 brought forward from last year leaving a balance of $8,692.69, which with your permission it is proposed to carry forward.

Your Directors are exploring every avenue with a view to reducing overheads and with a return to more normal times I trust it will be possible to submit a more favourable state of affairs to the next Meeting of Shareholders.

The report and accounts were duly adopted, and Messrs. S. H. Dodwell and Ho Kom Tong who were due to retire by rotation from the Directorate, were re-elected as directors. Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were re-elected auditors.

At Shamshui

Three weeks before the examinations Cpl. Derham was instructed by W/O Senior to take some Army forms to Shamshui Camp. He informed Pte. McAdell of his instructions and McAdell gave him copies of the examination papers to be set for mathematics, Army and Empire and essays, and told him to show them to the instructors and also that he could have copies of them if he wanted them.

Derham went to Shamshui but did not have a chance of seeing the instructor. Later the same day he had occasion to meet Brearley again who asked him if it would be possible to obtain copies of the examination papers. He then showed the copies to Brearley and reported to McAdell that he had shown the papers to the instructors.

$100 Required

Derham had occasion to go there again next day and before going was told by McAdell that if the class wanted the papers he would have to pay $100 for them.

A meeting was arranged at the "Sunfreeze" Cafe to complete the transactions. McAdell took possession of the papers and returned them to Derham on the following Friday. Derham attended at the "Sunfreeze" Cafe and met Brearley and Doughty who inspected the papers and expressed their satisfaction. The $100 was handed over and they asked if it was possible to obtain the map reading paper.

Derham answered that he thought McAdell could get them later. Derham then returned to the Education Office but did not speak to McAdell until the following morning when he handed over $100 of which $50 was handed back to him as his share.

THE PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE

Parliament has lost no time in getting down to the problem overshadowing all others in Europe, and the autumn session has opened with a full dress debate upon Disarmament in its widest aspects. The question has thrust even unemployment, war debts and currency stabilisation into the background. Fear of war is again growing in Europe. The speeches make sorry reading and it is easy to understand the growing discontent with those democratic institutions for which Mr. Baldwin and Sir John Simon made, over the luncheon table a few days ago, such eloquent appeals. Sir John Simon gave another magnificent speech in the House. He is one of the few barristers who can turn the splendid eloquence, applied not long ago at the old Bailey on behalf of a murderer's neck, to the vast and complicated world problems of to-day. How well he pleads his country's virtue. With what wealth of rhetoric he fences that old platitude: "The central political issue is to reconcile Germany's demands for equality with France's desire for security." Almost he persuades us that the thing can be done. His words fall like sunshine into a dark valley, and for a moment it seems that a new spring-time of reason and wisdom is awakening in human affairs. The leader of the English Bar finishes, and as the debate rolls on clouds gather once more. Col. L. S. Amery, squat and pug-nacious, fresh from his triumphs at the Conservative Party Conference, where he urged "armaments and yet more armaments," now calls the Government to stop pestering France about armaments and to put our trust in the United States. "Colonel Amery is all for peace, but he wants to be ready for war, and to plunge in directly our interests, our safety and our prestige demand extreme measures.

Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Winston Churchill cross swords over Germany. The former stresses her helplessness, and pelts the House with statistics of the armaments piled up in Europe and America to keep Germany—and every other country—in their proper places. Mr. Churchill ridicules the Liberal Leader's picture of Germany with "a hundred thousand rifles too many, and a few boy scouts." He counters with an even better phrase. "I see a philosophy of bloodlust, inculcated in youths, wherewith no parallel could be found since the days of barbarism."

Shadows of Bright! and the beat of the wings of the angel of death! It is disgraceful that two leading and responsible politicians should disagree so violently about a question of fact. They neither of them know what they are talking about. The truth is not for two wealthy and leisured old gentlemen, who should have examined the German situation first hand instead of bolstering up theories with facts and evidence, that any group of efficient secretaries could "devil" out of the writer of nonsense written and talked in Germany as in any other country. Those who have to pay in blood and money and suffering for the wars, out of which politicians find materials for memoirs, want some kind of guidance upon the truth of the European situation. Where is the truth known? We can all be certain that the able and impartial permanent officials of the War Office, the Admiralty and the Foreign Office know the truth. They have no facts and fancies to further; they meet the situation as it stands. On the whole their spokesman, Sir John Simon, is optimistic, but every allowance is made for the need of official caution. But what use are these politicians, who talk like hired advocates on behalf of their precious "principles." And of all offenders, the Labour Party is the greatest—the party whose persistent policy is to disarm the country and then, when their prejudices run riot, let us in for a war with a fully prepared antagonist. Their leader, Mr. Arthur Henderson, the amiable

WEDDING

Goldman-Laing

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Union Church, Kennedy Road yesterday afternoon when Miss Elizabeth Stuart Black Laing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Laing of Troon, Scotland was married to Mr. "Lolly" Goldman, the well-known sportsman.

The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated. The bride who was given away by Mr. C. W. E. Bishop looked very charming in a graceful "Eunice" model tied at the back and finished with long ends—the bodice of Peau d'ange lace and the skirt of Ivory Bridal Satin, a skillfully twisted girdle and rather high waistline held by a cluster of orange blossoms were unique. The train of Bridal satin embodied a wide panel of lace trailing in a point behind. A beautifully lace embroidered veil was held by tiny orange blossoms to the nape of the neck. The bride's bouquet was a sheath of choice white heather and orchids.

She was attended by Miss Joan Churchill who looked graceful in a gown, by "Eunice," of powder blue tulle over morocaine, daintily dotted with tiny silver sequins. A silver lace cap and mittens were also worn. Instead of flowers the bridesmaid carried a muff of tulle and silver lace finished with white heather and pink rose-buds.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. F. R. Burch as bestman, and the matron of honour was Mrs. C. W. E. Bishop, who wore a dress of green morocaine and chiffon velvet made by Madame D'Oby.

After the ceremony a reception was held at No. 1, Leighton Hill, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, where the customary felicitations and congratulations were extended to the happy couple by a large number of friends.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Goldman left for their honeymoon which is being spent at Fanning. The bride's going-away dress was a smart ensemble of Nattine blue freize with the new "swagger" coat and hat trimmed with dove grey—shoes, bag and gloves toning—also by "Eunice."

TAM YI KWING EXECUTED

For Extortion And Corruption

Canton, November 8.
Sentenced to death by the special Administrative Tribunal, Tam Yi Kwing, former director of business tax bureau for Nam Hoi and Poon Yue Counties, was executed by shooting this afternoon. He was escorted to the north-eastern outskirts by police guards and paid the full penalty for extortion and corruption.

The judgment of the tribunal was approved yesterday by the South-west Political Council at its regular Tuesday meeting. By utilising his official position, Tam demanded money from $150 to $200 from each shop within his jurisdiction. This matter was brought to the attention of the Provincial Department of Finance.

Knowing his name was up, Tam ran away but was subsequently arrested. Under the new penal regulations and the Three-Year Plan, corrupt officials are subject to capital punishment. This is the second execution of a public official within a month.

Uncle Arthur, cannot fail to know something of the Disarmament Problem, through presiding over the Conference, but there will be plenty of people to shout "traitor" and "reprobate" if he ventures to tell them the truth.

And yet, though the times call for accurate knowledge, concentration of power, and bold leadership, the English people shrink from the dictatorship of any clique or section. At heart they endorse Mr. Baldwin and Sir John Simon. We do not want a tyrant. Mr. Baldwin withered the attempted overlordship of a section of the Press, and the whole nation broke the Trade Union Council's attempted coup, at the 1928 General Strike. But the fear is growing that democracy is too dangerous a luxury in these days, and one reads with heart-sinking the folly alike of Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Churchill and Sir Stafford Cripps.

BRITISH POLICY IN CHINA

To Be Discussed in House of Lords

London, Nov. 8.
In the past six months Nanking has undoubtedly progressed remarkably and is probably the most effective Government China has had for many years. Inspired with genuinely practical ideas, is the opinion likely to be expressed by Lord Peel in opening the Lord's debate to-day on British policy in China.

Lord Peel emphasises that Britain's policy appears to be weighted with indecision most inconsistent both to her great interests in the Far East and China's welfare.

Faced with colossal difficulties by the prevalence of Communism, China would certainly welcome assistance, Lord Peel, therefore, points out the need for a careful review of the whole position in the light of changed conditions in China for which the despatch of a new British Minister to China offers a good opportunity.

Lords Melchett and Addington, and possibly Lord Salisbury are expected to support Lord Peel.—Reuter.

NO 'LEG SHAKING' IN CANTON

Police Prohibit Dance Halls

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 8.
Dancing as a social pastime is an approved diversion in other parts of China, but the Canton police authorities consider that leg shaking is against good morals and must be rigidly prohibited. This is the reply of the Bureau of Public Safety to the petition that the roof garden of Sun Wah Hotel, West Bund, be used for public dancing.

There is no public dance hall or even dancing academy in Canton known to the police. Some years ago an enterprising overseas Chinese built a special restaurant with an excellent dance floor on the Bund, but as floor tapping is not permissible, this establishment is now turned into a motor car show room.

Western educated Chinese, returned residents from abroad, American trained flying officers and those who love dancing can shake their legs at private parties and exclusive clubs. The ban on dancing was first started by Police Chief Teng Yin Wah six years ago and has been strictly enforced since then.

BALKAN CONFERENCE

Customs Union Suggested

Salonika, Nov. 6.—The fourth Balkan Conference met yesterday under the chairmanship of former Greek Foreign Minister Papanastasiou. The League of Nations and allied organisations had sent their delegates. The only subject on the agenda for debate was the possibility of the formation of Balkan customs union.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

LONDON STOCK MARKET

Unsettling Effect Of Dollar Fluctuations

London, Nov. 7.
Sterling on New York was yesterday quoted at 49 1/2, and on Paris at 81 1/16.

London Stock Markets were generally dull, the sharp fluctuations of the dollar having an unsettling effect. British funds were steady with war loan at 100 1/2.

Gold closed at 129 1/4—British Wireless Service.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

One case of paratyphoid was reported on Tuesday.

There will be a Concert of German and Scandinavian Music on Thursday 16th of November at 6.30 p.m. at The Helena May Institute.

Owing to a short circuit in the overhead wire yesterday evening there was a stoppage in the train service extending over half an hour shortly after 7 p.m. The defect, however, was quickly attended to and a normal service was soon restored.

"PEACE AND EQUALITY"

Herr Hitler's Hectic Electioneering

Berlin, Nov. 8.—The great propaganda campaign for the general elections as well as the referendum, which are both to take place on Sunday next, reached its climax last evening. Adolf Hitler and his lieutenants are travelling by a train throughout the country addressing night after night large audiences. Everywhere great enthusiasm is being aroused by the Chancellor's passionate plea for peace and equality.

Last night, Adolf Hitler speaking at the East-Prussian industrial city of Elbing, reminded his hearers of their duty on November 13 "in order to wipe out the disgrace of November 9", that is the date of the Republican Revolution in 1918. Loudspeakers transmitted the Leader's speech all over the East-Prussian province.

Prussian Premier Goering spoke in Western Germany in the ancient border town of Trier, exhorting his hearers to join in the intellectual struggle for Germany's liberty.

In the capital Dr. Goebbels, chief of staff Roehm, and others addressed 16,000 party functionaries, while at Koeslin Prince August Wilhelm, one of the former Kaiser's sons, asked everyone to do his duty on November 13. Herr Celdte, Minister of Labour and leader of the Stoehmalat organisation, stressed that the German Government under Hitler's enlightened leadership needs peace both at home and abroad in order to carry out its gigantic recovery scheme. The German Government's desire for peace and its solemn declaration that it neither wants nor needs war, are absolutely sincere, declared Herr Celdte.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

MORE TROUBLE IN HAVANA

Mysterious Bombing From Aeroplane

Havanas, November 8.
Mysterious bombing from a military plane and retaliatory bursts of machine gun and rifle fire from Government quarters, spread fear throughout the city early this morning. It is believed that part of the army, aided by the secret A.B.C. organisation, attempted a coup d'etat.—Reuter.

COMMUNISTS IN SZECHUEN

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton November 8.
Szechuen province is troubled by 100,000 Reds who are scattered in ten counties. They secured their armament by disarming the provincial troops under Generals Li Wen Hui and Tien Chung Yao.

This is the story narrated to-day by Mr. Mah Huan Cheung, member of the South-west Political Council who spent over a year in studying the conditions in interior provinces.

EXPLOSION AT STETTIN POWER WORKS

Stettin, Nov. 6. A 32,000 kilowatt turbo-generator of the Stettin Power Works exploded today, an electrician being seriously and a foreman slightly injured. The generator was completely destroyed, machine parts weighing more than a hundred weight being hurled through the ceiling and the walls so that the building is badly damaged. The supply of the current however was not interrupted. The damage is estimated at 500,000 Marks.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

BERNARD SHAW'S PRAISE

For Hitler's Policy

Munich, Nov. 5. George B. Shaw was one of the leading literary men who answered the questionnaire sent out by "Europäische Revue" published in Europe, wherein the opinion was sought about Germany's action in leaving the League of Nations as well as the Disarmament Conference.

"Reichschancellor Hitler's action of withdrawing from the League and the Disarmament Conference was a master stroke," the British writer said, "completely changing disposition in Europe as proved by the veering around of the British press, formerly hostile to the German of Hitler, after Vernon Bartlett's broadcast speech discussing Hitler's decision."

"The world is tired of the childish and panic-stricken demands of France," continues G.B.S., "for unattainable safety" and of the professions of pacifism with which England and the other powers tried to disguise their real intention not to disarm.

It was evident that Germany had needed only a determined, clear-sighted leader who was prepared to announce firmly that Germany insisted in full equality of status with the other nations."

"Instead of being plunged into war," Mr. Shaw concludes, "Europe has been snatched back from the brink of the abyss. Adolf Hitler has recognized that the historic hour had struck and he spoke the decisive word. The beginning of Hitler's popularity in England is now distinctly noticeable, just as was formerly the case with Benito Mussolini. It is now only necessary to await the results of next Sunday's elections in Germany, though it is hard to conceive that even one single vote will be cast against Hitler."—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

THE TIMES IN GERMANY

30 Pfennigs A Copy

Berlin, Nov. 6. Copies of the "London Times" received here this evening bear the words "Price in Germany, 30 Pfennigs," printed prominently alongside the title, where formerly the English price stood.

Since the new regime assumed power in Germany, reports of leading articles of the "Times" have been widely quoted by the German papers, throughout the Reich as one of the very few foreign, independent publications attempting to take an impartial view of the developments now going on in the new Germany, above all, stating both sides of every case. Apparently the result of this attitude has been that the sales of the "Times" in Germany have now increased enough to warrant a special edition.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

Five arrests were made.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

BRITAIN'S FOREIGN POLICY

Divided Opinions Expressed In Parliament

CASTIGATION OF GERMANY'S BELLICOSE POLICY

London, Nov. 8. If Germany is going to re-arm, no one can prevent her. It is time to reconsider the British policy, declared Mr. L. C. M. S. Amery. Britain should stop pestering France and other countries into disarmament.

"We should stop meddling in Europe and get the United States to associate with us more closely with the affairs of the Dominions rather than with Europe," he said. No undertaking was given to Germany in the Versailles Treaty that the victors would disarm to the level of the vanquished, but the hope is held out that Germany's disarmament will be the first stage of a general limitation of armaments, declared Sir Austen Chamberlain, during the Commons debate in the course of a trenchant castigation of Germany's bellicose spirit.

"STICK TO THE LEAGUE," SAYS MR. CHURCHILL

Mr. Winston Churchill said that he could hardly believe Mr. Lloyd George's picture of a Germany with "100,000 rifles, too many and a few Boy Scouts."

On the contrary, he saw the philosophy of blood-lust being inculcated into youths. No parallel into youths. No parallel to this could be found since the days of barbarism.

It was no wonder, therefore that there was alarm in the neighbouring countries.

"We should stick to the League of Nations in Europe and address Germany collectively. We should also redress some of her grievances before re-armament has reached a stage which will endanger the peace of the world," Mr. Churchill said.

CAPT. EDEN, PACIFIST

Winding up the debate, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Captain Anthony Eden, declared that if Europe had accepted the British Disarmament convention in March, "We would have reduced conscript service to eight months, and would have virtually abolished all heavy artillery, tanks and military and naval aviation, provided a scheme could be worked out for the control of civil aviation."

"If the land Powers had made reductions comparable to the British naval reductions, perhaps the Disarmament Conference need not have sat at all," he said.—Reuter.

FRENCH AND U. S. ARMAMENTS
Mr. David Lloyd George, war time Premier, with masses of figures, showed the increase of armaments since the end of the war.

He said that since the Locarno Pact was signed, France had increased her guns and bombing aeroplanes by 50 per cent.

France, in 1914, had 35,000 tons of destroyers, and she now had destroyers totalling 198,000 tons.

The United States, in 1914, had 40,000 tons, and now had 259,000 tons.

Yes, France and the United States talked peace more than all the other Powers put together. France had doubled her armament budget since the signing of the Locarno Pact and the United States had increased her armament budget from U. S. $590,000,000 to U. S. $709,000,000.

The spirit of Locarno was charged with too much picric acid, he said. It was impossible for Germany to manufacture big guns without the whole world knowing. Therefore, why impose a period of probation?

ARMAMENT FIRMS CRITICISED

London, Nov. 8. On Monday in the House of Commons, as regards criticism of British armament firms which were enjoying prosperity, Captain Anthony Eden, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, attributed the prosperity of one of its motor car business.

One big manufacturer attributed his increased trade to the demolition of slums by explosives (loud laughter).

We had an effective system of licensing for the regulation of the export of arms and munitions. Britain still stood by her plan, he said.

Defending France, Captain Eden said it was not France that walked out of the Conference. We should be careful, in our desire to do justice to the German viewpoint, not to do an injustice elsewhere.—Reuter.

Captain Eden expressed the opinion that there was no cause for despair. The debate had shown that isolation had scarcely any friends.

It was largely British policy that brought Germany into the League, and Britain hoped that long before Germany's two years notice was up her resignation would be withdrawn, he said.

The debate then ended.—Reuter.

CHAMBERLAIN OPTIMISTIC

Taxation May Be Reduced

London, November 7. Asked in the House of Commons yesterday morning whether progress was being made towards the reduction of taxation in the next Budget, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, said that the improved condition of the country was evident in many ways and enabled him to look with confidence for a favourable financial outcome of the present financial year.

But, he could make no statement as to revenue or expenditure for the succeeding year.—British Wireless Service.

LA GUARDIA IN

Later. There is no doubt that Mr. La Guardia will be the next Mayor of New York City.

The votes have not been completely counted, but Tammany Hall concedes La Guardia's election.—Reuter.

La Guardia won by about 200,000 votes. Joseph McKee, the Independent Democrat was second, and the present Mayor, Mr. O'Brien, the Tammany Hall candidate was third.—Reuter.

Germany May Cancel Withdrawal
London, Nov. 8. The Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, made an eloquent defence of Great Britain's share in promoting disarmament, on the resumption in the House of Commons debate last night.

Germany could cancel her withdrawal from the League of Nations, and every country must earnestly trust that events would cause her to do so, he said.

A great deal would happen in the next two years. All Britain's influence would be on the side of reconciliation.

As regards the validity of the Locarno Treaty, the Government's view, after consulting law officers, was that the withdrawal of any party to the Treaty did not release the other parties from their obligations.

If Germany's withdrawal became effective, however, it would raise issues so far-reaching in character that it would be impossible to make any public statement on the matter without careful consideration and consultation with the other parties to the Treaty.

Sir John Simon urged that the country would not treat the door which Germany had slammed as if it were locked and bolted.

"We should take every opportunity to keep in touch with her as with the other signatories to the Locarno Treaty," he said.—Reuter.

PROHIBITION VIRTUALLY DEFUNCT

WILD SCENES THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES

New York, Nov. 8. Prohibition is now virtually defunct in the United States. Utah the thirty-sixth state has voted wet, thus all that is needed to make the repeal a fact will be ratification when the State Conventions meet on December 12 to formally accept the Twenty-First Amendment repealing the Eighteenth, after which the sale of liquor and wines will be legal.

Ohio and Pennsylvania have also voted wet. North and South Carolina dry. News that prohibition was doomed was celebrated all night long throughout the country, by impromptu parades and mock funerals of prohibition.

A quarter of a million thirsty New York revellers, who were hoarse after cheering the first anti-Tammany Mayor in twenty years, indulged the surprising Utah results, and consumed vast quantities of boot-leggers' whisky.

In Chicago night clubs staged jamboosies. White-jarrier West Californians, including famous film stars participated in the rejoicings.—Reuter.

It was exact to a day, forty-seven years ago, that Archer committed suicide.

The jockeys are presenting a souvenir as a token of respect. The well-known owner Mr. Thornton Smith is presenting Archer's whip and spurs, which he recently purchased at an auction sale, to Richards, who, at twenty-nine years of age, has not yet ridden a winner in the Derby.

Golden King, owned and trained by Mr. Frank Hartigan, won easily, the jockey receiving the heartiest ovation.—Reuter.

The King's Congratulations.
Richards received a telegram from His Majesty the King's secretary, Sir Clive Wigram, which read "I am commanded to express to you His Majesty's congratulations on winning 247 races, and by this splendid achievement, establishing a record in the annals of racing in this country."—Reuter.

NEW MAYOR OF NEW YORK

Mr. La Guardia Elected

New York, Nov. 8. The Mayoral election held here yesterday was the most turbulent for many years. Violence and disorder swept the city, hoodlums, treating the voters unceremoniously.

A record poll is expected, however, despite the intimidation, gang fighting and minor rioting which was prevalent.

The "Fusion" guards, culled by the anti-Tammany candidate, Mr. La Guardia, from the ranks of professional pugilists, and athletes, were powerless to deal with the situation.

Thugs attacked the Communist candidate, Mr. Robert Minor, and pitched him into the street.

In one district, the entire election Board was arrested for fighting between themselves.—Reuter.

It is understood there is a possibility that Alexandra Troyanovsky, ex-Ambassador to Japan, will be the first Soviet Ambassador to America. Mr. Roosevelt is reported to be determined not to seek a formal treaty during the present negotiations.—Reuter.

CAPTAINS' DAY AT THE INTERPORT

H. Owen Hughes And R. N. Hamilton Stop The Rot HONG KONG NEED 139 FOR A VICTORY

The second day of the Hong Kong-Malaya interport match may well go down in history as the 'Captains' Day,' for first one skipper and then the other, rose to the occasion in a grand style and played their parts gallantly just when everything seemed to go wrong with their respective sides.

To Harry Owen Hughes, full points must be awarded for his innings of 40, not out. He got the runs when they were badly wanted, and he got them in fine style too, and that now must wipe off any doubts expressed as to his ability to lead the team and set a fighting example.

R. N. Hamilton of Malaya also, showed the hundreds of spectators present, that he is a stout-hearted leader, who does not let a reverse or two affect his play, but, on the contrary, spurs him on to greater efforts. His 51 runs saved Malaya from complete collapse, and although Hong Kong need only make 134 runs for a win, Hamilton's knock proved invaluable to his side, especially when it is taken into consideration that Hong Kong will have to make their runs on a badly cut up wicket.

While bouquets are being handed out, one must not forget the parts played by G. S. Dunkley (Hong Kong) and B. S. Gill (Malaya). They also got runs at the critical stages for their respective sides.

As on the first day, the fielding of both teams was almost without blemish, and much will depend on how the early batsmen shape. Teddy Fincher and Duckitt, will resume for Hong Kong this morning and will go all out to get the runs for their side!

HONG KONG'S LAST WICKET STAND

Hong Kong resumed their innings at 11.02 a.m. on a wicket that appeared to have recovered somewhat. Owen Hughes went out with Redmond, the overnight not out. Willis started the bowling to complete his over and then Gill was given the ball. Off his second delivery, he had Redmond caught at silly-leg by Morgan.

A. C. Hamilton joined his skipper and these two saw the sixty go up after play had been in progress for 16 minutes. These two batsmen appeared well-set at 70 when a change was made in the bowling. Jonklass coming on in place of Gill. Owen Hughes was batting with plenty of confidence while his partner won rounds of applause when he brought off a nice hit to leg (for a four) off Willis. The fielding of the Malayan team was excellent. Alvis in particular being responsible for some clever work at cover.

Hamilton hit one very hard past. Alvis' head for a four, then in attempting to pull the next one for a four, he was clean bowled. It was an inauspicious end to a real good innings, for the ball that bowled him was a full toss and might easily have gone for a four had he been a little more careful.—78-7-11.

Minu joined Owen Hughes and opened his account off the first ball he received from Willis which he drove for a single. He had a narrow escape the next over, when, in attempting to go forward to Jonklass, he put up an easy catch but the bowler failed to get to it. He did exactly the same thing off the next one, but although this went a little past the bowler, Jonklass brought off a good one handed catch to make the score board read 79-8-1.

Goodwin was next man in and he made no bones about things, lashing out at Jonklass off the first ball he received and almost got bowled. His leg was evidently still giving him some trouble for he had to have Minu to run for him. After missing three luscious swipes, he connected the fourth but sent a high catch to Eu Chow Tiek who was fielding near the public stand.

A Real Captain's Innings. Nine wickets down for 79 runs—such was Hong Kong's plight at 11.45 a.m. Dunkley went in to join Owen Hughes who was playing a real captain's innings, and after stopping the first five, he let the last one go for a boundary bye to send the 80 in 121 minutes. Owen Hughes then sent Jonklass to the public stand for a four to reach his 20 after he had been batting for 45 minutes. He was batting very well and soon after this placed the fast bowler to the leg for a two to send the ninety up. Two balls later, he hit a four, also to the leg, to pass Malaya's total.

Dunkley was giving his captain very valuable support, one of his shots off Jonklass, in particular, being neatly executed. It went to the leg to give him two runs.

With the score standing at 97, Hamilton made a change in the bowling, putting on Speldewinde on in the Naval Yard end in place of Willis, and off his third ball, Owen Hughes scored a single, giving Dunkley the bowling. Hong Kong's stumper made a single, and crossing over, he faced Jonklass again, but he failed to score and gave the bowler a maiden.

Owen Hughes then took another single off Speldewinde to send the 100 up in 136 minutes. A few minutes later he smacked a full toss from Jonklass to the on boundary to bring his own score up to 32, thus being the top scorer for both sides on the first innings.

At 107, Gill was given his second spell with the ball, coming on in place of Speldewinde. This proved to be a double change, for Alvis was put on in place of Jonklass, and off his second delivery, Owen Hughes scored a single. The new bowler had had luck in that off his fifth one, Dunkley edged the ball away to the boundary to send the 110 up, following this with a well-placed single.

Cautiously Does It! Both batsmen showed the utmost caution, punishing the loose ones but treating the good fellows with due respect. Dunkley then turned one from Gill nicely to the leg for two.

At this stage, runs were coming at a quicker rate, and on a wicket that seemed, from the Pavilion, to be improving all the time, the batsmen were getting really at home. The both gave the impression that they were seeing the ball very well, and off the last ball of Gill's third over, Owen Hughes had had luck in just falling to clear the members' stand with a beautiful pull which brought his total to 40, and the total to 120 in 153 minutes.

In the next over, Dunkley survived a confident appeal for a catch behind the stumps off Alvis, though it appeared from where the writer was sitting that it was a catch. Two balls later, however, he made the same mistake and this time the appeal was allowed.

Thus Hong Kong's innings came to an end at 12.30 p.m. The last wicket partnership had realised 46 runs, and much credit must be given to Owen Hughes and Dunkley for the way in which they carried on. Owen Hughes played an excellent innings, and his 40 not out may prove to be the deciding factor. Coming as they did when they were badly needed, too much value cannot be placed on Dunkley's 17. His captain found the ropes seven times while his 17 included 2 fours.

MALAYA'S 2ND INNINGS

There was a very large crowd present to see Owen Hughes lead Hong Kong out to field at 1.20 p.m. But and Gibson again opening the innings for Malaya.

good deal harder when the Hong Kong skipper gave the ball to Archie Hamilton to start the attack from the Dockyard end. Off the second delivery, Burn scored a single to break his "duck". Minu was given the ball for the second over but he was very short and Burn got his second ball away to the square leg boundary.

Hamilton was bowling with three slips and a third man, placed rather deep while his square leg (Duckitt) and mid-off (Garthwaite) were fairly close in. Minu found a better length the next over, but Gibson was seeing them very well and brought off a fine square cut for a boundary to send the ten up after play had been in progress for ten minutes.

The pitch was lively and Hamilton kicked awkwardly at times, his third over being a maiden. Minu followed his example and also sent down a maiden.

With the total at 12, Burn had the misfortune of playing on to Hamilton after he had scored only 7 runs. The ball came up rather awkwardly, and in trying to stop it, Burn deflected it on to the stumps.

The new comer, Eu Chow Tiek, played the last three balls of Hamilton's over very carefully, and off the last one they ran a bye, bringing Eu to face Minu who had, by this time, worked up a better length.

More disaster was, however, in store for Malaya, for in trying to take a short one off Minu, Eu was run out. The ball went to Garthwaite, who was fielding fairly deep in mid-off and this player threw the stumps down with the batsman well out of his crease. It was no run and Eu had only himself to thank, for it was he who called.—13-2-0.

Six Interport Points

(BY "L. B. W.")

The following were six of the chief points of yesterday's play—

1. That Owen Hughes is not only a good captain and a cricketer, but he is also a big hearted fighter who does not let adverse odds perturb him;
2. That R. N. Hamilton, the Malaya captain, is of the same type as his rival captain;
3. That the ball with which Minu bowled Hamilton would have bowled anybody on any day, it pitched on the blind spot and took the off stump;
4. That Dame Fortune was very fair to both teams;
5. That Dunkley is the best wicket-keeper we have had for a long time; and
6. That Hong Kong will not find run-getting easy this morning on the badly worn wicket.

The Malayan captain, Hamilton, started to bat against Minu who sent down another maiden. Gibson then made a single off Hamilton and that brought the Malayan captain over to face his namesake. It was left till the next over for him to open his account, and he did this by sending Minu to the rails.

The 20 was hoisted in the next over when Gibson scored a single, and off the next ball, Hamilton got a four—the result of a straight drive the bowler being Archie Hamilton. Minu then bowled another maiden, and in the next over, Hamilton was hit on the hand by a ball (from Hamilton) which came up awkwardly.

With the score at 25, Owen Hughes made his first change, resting Minu and giving Garthwaite the ball but the new bowler was no-balled off his first delivery. Two balls later, he was pulled up again for the same offence while his next was hit for a two by Gibson who banded the one following to the public stand for a four to bring the total to 30 after 39 minutes' play.

Owen Hughes favoured a double change for Hamilton was relieved by Alec Pearce after Garthwaite had completed his over, and as in the first innings, he bowled round the wicket with five men on the leg side. His first delivery was hit for a two by Hamilton, who, by this time, appeared to be well set.

Pearce got his first wicket in the next over when Gibson stepped across to one which came in from the leg and was given marching orders when the ball hit his pads. From where the writer was sitting, the ball appeared to have hit the batsman rather high. The score now read 34-3-15.

Chow, the new comer, opened his account with a single off Pearce and crossed over to face Garthwaite and he survived a confident appeal for obstruction off the first ball.

HAMILTON WELL SET. Off the next over from Pearce, Croome made a luscious hit for 4 to bring the total to 42 after 55 minutes. Garthwaite was no-balled again in his next over, but apart from an inclination to run over the line, he was bowling well, keeping a good length.

Hamilton had by this time got his eye in and was hitting them in the middle. He hit Pearce for a four—a straight drive—but two balls later he gave a hard chance which fell rather wide of Fincher in the slips and this went for a two. Fifty was reached in 65 minutes.

After being no-balled for the fourth time, Garthwaite got his first wicket when Croome drove him very hard and low to mid-off where Minu brought off a good catch. 53-4-5.

The score was none too impressive when Alvis joined his skipper, and at this stage Owen Hughes decided to give Hamilton the ball again. The Malayan skipper hit his first ball for a single to give Alvis the bowling. Duckitt was then put on in place of Garthwaite and Alvis hit him for a single to bring the 60 up.

A few balls later, Alvis was out. It was a rather mixed-up thing. Alvis appeared to have played the ball and missed it. Then somebody appealed, and the umpire at the bowler's end referred the matter to the square leg umpire who ruled the batsman out—bowled. It certainly was hard luck for Alvis, and the people in the pavilion were all under the impression that he was given out stumped! 61-5-6.

Jonklass was next in and he soon settled down to hit the ball squarely while Hamilton was still playing pretty cricket. He hit a two off his namesake to bring the total to 70 in 80 minutes and his own score to 29, and two balls later he brought off a fine pull for a 4.

Hamilton certainly appeared well set for he was hitting them all over the ground and one of his shots which went for a four to the public stand, sent the 80 up. JONKLASS AND HAMILTON BOWLED

Just when these two gave the impression that they were in for a big partnership, Duckitt sent down a beauty which took Jonklass' off stump. It was a beauty and fully deserved a wicket. With the board reading 81-6-5, Gill went out to join his captain. Another change was effected at this point, Pearce coming on for Hamilton. For three overs, play was rather tame and then Gill opened his account with a four—a drive past cover—off Pearce, to reach his 40.

In the next over, Hamilton made a mighty hit off Duckitt and was unlucky in not getting a four as Redmond made an excellent recovery. In the next over, Gill hit another four to send the 90 up, play having been in progress for 98 minutes.

At 92, Minu was put on again in place of Duckitt and off his third ball, Hamilton scored a four, hooking the ball beautifully to the tram lines. Then a bye boundary sent the 100 up. The batsmen were in a happy mood and both hit out to good effect. Gill hit Pearce for a two to reach his ten after he had been batting for about twenty minutes.

Hamilton then hit one to the long field where Redmond might have attempted a catch, but the next ball he smacked to the boundary to reach his half century. The next ball was a beauty and coming in from the leg, it beat him and took his off stump.

Hamilton had played a regular captain's knock and during his stay at the wickets, showed that he is a first class batsman. His 51 included 7 boundaries, and he saw 89 runs added to the total.

With the score at 112-7-51, Willis joined Gill to see Owen Hughes go on himself. Hong Kong's skipper bowled with two slips and Fincher in the gully. At 114, a stop was made for tea. Minu started the bowling after tea, Gill taking the first ball, and off the third ball, he pulled a shortish one to the leg boundary to bring his own score to 20. Redmond was given the ball in the Naval Yard end and off his first ball, Willis opened his account with a four—a very hard smack past cover, which Pearce failed to stop. Two balls later he put the same bowler to the leg boundary to bring the total to 120. Then in attempting to hit one which kept rather low, he was bowled—125-8-8.

GILL HITS OUT. Morgan joined Gill, and played the first ball he received from Redmond, safely, and then over was called, giving the Indian the bowling, this player scoring a single. He got another two off Redmond the next over when he brought off a fine leg glance, this taking the total to 130, and his own to 30.

A few minutes later, Morgan received a full toss from Redmond and he promptly despatched this to the leg boundary to take the total to 138. Duckitt was given another chance with the ball but this time, he was somewhat inclined to allow on the leg side. In the next over he was no-balled, but he was bowling a better ball and lost the inclination to pitch them on the leg stump. Morgan, however, got him away with a pretty late cut for a two and with the total at 144, Pearce was given the ball again. On his third ball, Gill made a single to give Morgan the bowling, and Pearce changed over to round the wicket when bowling at the Air Force representative. The batsmen, however, were very careful, neither of them taking any chances, with the result that play was very slow. At 148 Owen Hughes took the ball himself, this time from the Law Courts end and Gill made a two off him to bring the total to 150 in 174 minutes. Redmond was put on again when the score stood at 151, and about this stage, the batsmen ran two very sharp singles.

FINCHER'S FINE CATCH. Gill made a two off Owen Hughes when he hit the ball past third man, and they might have done a third run had Morgan not slipped. The Gill-Morgan partnership was brought to an end when the latter failed to get hold of one from Owen Hughes and gave a very difficult chance to Teddy Fincher at slips. The ball was going very fast and it was also a high one, but Fincher leaped right up and took it with his right hand. The partnership had yielded 32 runs, Morgan's share being 15 while the total was 157 for 9.

Speldewinde joined, Gill and they got a five leg-bye, this sending the 160 up. Speldewinde opened his account with a single off Duckitt, a very hard smack to cover. The total now stood at 168, and another change was made in the bowling. Pearce coming on again in place of Redmond. Speldewinde then put the ball away to fine leg for a single—170 in 197 minutes. The end came two minutes later when Pearce bowled Speldewinde with a beauty. Gill was not out, 38. He played a good innings and was in the crease for something like minutes, during which time he did not offer any chance at all. The innings therefore closed at 171, leaving Hong Kong to get 139 in the fourth innings and on a wicket that is already showing signs of wear.

HONG KONG BATS AGAIN. The light was rather poor when Hong Kong went in for their second innings. Fincher and Duckitt again being sent out to open the innings. There was a slight breeze blowing across the wicket and Willis opened the attack for Malaya from the Naval Yard end. This time he

£3,000 Fee Paid To The Arsenal

TO FILL PLACE OF ABEL

Fulham have solved the difficulty of finding a suitable centre-forward to take the place of Abel, who broke his collar-bone in last Saturday's game with Mill City, by signing Jack Lambert, the Arsenal player, yesterday.

The news came as no surprise in football circles, for Fulham were forced to bid in the transfer market, as they had allowed Newton—who led the attack before Abel—to go to Reading.

Fulham officials declared last week-end that they were not prepared to pay any fancy prices for a centre, but the fee for Lambert was £3,000. The advent of Dunne, their £2,000 forward from Sheffield United, together with the fact that they have Coleman on their books, must have influenced the Arsenal in their decision to release Lambert.

NATIVE OF ROTHERHAM
A native of Rotherham, Lambert joined the Highbury club from Doncaster Rovers to whom Arsenal paid £2,000. His first appearance in Arsenal's League eleven was in 1926-27, but, taking part in fifteen matches, he scored only one goal.

Not until he took the place of Brain in 1929-30 did Lambert secure a regular position in the First Division team. In that season he scored 19 goals in League games.

The next year he improved so much that 34 League appearances yielded him 38 goals. He was in Arsenal's winning Cup team in 1930, and played two years later when the club lost to Newcastle United.

MILLWALL RESHUFFLE ATTACK
Millwall are reorganising their attack for the visit of Port Vale to New York Cross on Saturday next. Horton moving from outside right to centre-forward to permit the inclusion of Alexander, the new forward from Bradford City.

Forsyth will revert to his former position at inside left, thus allowing Swallow to figure at left half. Ranson and Duffy are, therefore, both left out of the side.

NEW CHESTERFIELD PLAYER
Fearing that a wrenched ankle, which he received in the match at Mansfield on Saturday last, may keep Harry Bedford, their inside-left, out of their home game with Hartlepool's United, Chesterfield have signed on Edward Robinson, a Birmingham player, who has previously played for Birmingham.

Bald Facts—Jack Seagrave, Southport's clever right-back, has got so fed-up trying to convince Chelsea have been told more than once of the possibilities of Wynn the fly-half inside-right.

The recent displays of Calder, Cardiff's right-back, caused the scout of a Midland First Division club to submit a highly favourable report.

Keep your eye on Portsmouth when Manchester North End decide to part with Worsley, their outside-right.

Want a real good defender? Reg Dyer, the former Fulham and Bristol City back, is without a club. Reg holds a free transfer.

Manager Neil McBain is schooling his young players on the right these days. At the expense of the Watford management they attend all the mid-week games in and around London.

It is of interest to note that Swindon have had one goal only scored against them at the County ground to date. But up till yesterday they had not scored a goal

Do you ever suffer from Headache, Cough, Cold, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Sore-throat, Toothache, or Asthma? Or do you like to be handicapped in society, in business or in your daily association with your strong, stout friends? For your own good, we would strongly advise you to have an open mind, and to make use of what you can call your true companion, instead of waiting for the time when you are attacked by disease, the youngest daughter of Mr. Fortune. When you are living and enjoying the gifts of nature, this unseen thief creeps into your system, and ruins you physically and mentally. Our preparation THE TIGER BALM, which has nothing to do with animal-fat, or any injurious substance, will safeguard your interest. When you are in trouble, just pay a few copper coins, and the next moment you will find that this world of sorrow and pain is suddenly changed to one of peace and prosperity.

MURDER IN A SAMPAN

Accused's Strenuous
Denial

FELLOW GANGSTER'S EVIDENCE

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday before Mr. Wynne-Jones, the case was continued from last week in which Kwong Tsui Tsol, is charged with the murder of an old woman, Foo Mung who was killed and robbed on the night of September 11. The hearing lasted for four hours and was marked by close argument of technical points between the Assistant Attorney-General, Mr. Fraser, and the Magistrate who kept an exemplary watch both on the interests of the prisoner, who was not legally represented, and of one of the witnesses who was about to implicate himself, with complete neutrality, when Mr. Wynne-Jones pulled him up.

An unexpected request by the accused to call witnesses late in the afternoon, caused the case to be adjourned until next Tuesday.

Leung Hee Wa, son of the deceased who was asked to identify a hat, a handkerchief and some cotton waste, all of which was said by the prosecution to have belonged to the murdered woman. The witness failed to recognize any of the articles.

Lance-Sergeant Joseph Frederick Hills stated that on the morning of September 11 at 7.15 o'clock, the last witness appeared at the Water Police Station and after reporting the murder took him to a pile of logs inside Yau-met-ti Typhoon Shelter where a boat was tied up. He saw the body of the deceased on board covered by a sack, and then towed the boat to the Yau-met-ti Government slipway.

Inspector William R. Chester Woods gave technical evidence of the finding of the body, and the exact position in the boat of the various exhibits.

Deceased's Ears Not Injured.
Asked by Mr. Wynne-Jones if he noticed any mark or injury upon the dead woman's ears the witness stated that they had been pierced for rings but there were no cuts or marks.

Cheong Sui Sing, who is being detained for deportation at Victoria Gaol, informed the Court that he was the owner of a licensed boat and a small ship which had no license and that he was formerly a fisherman. He claimed that he had known the defendant for two years, first meeting him in an opium den.

Asked where he spent the night prior to the robbery he stated that he slept on his own boat after going for a ride in another boat with a party of five men and a woman, the latter being the owner. On the night of the tragedy, he was in an opium den until very late, with 8 others, including the defendant. Presently the party left and walked to a spot near the Mongkok Markets. Here he claimed plans for the robbery was discussed.

At this point the Magistrate interrupted him to inform him that he was implicated himself and when the prosecution complained of his action His Worship stated: "It is my duty to supply advice because of the simple minds of these people, and I don't think one injustice should be done to help forward the ends of justice."

How the Murder was Carried Out.
After much discussion the case continued, and the witness was asked to tell what happened following and how the plan to commit the crime was discussed. Witness said that the party went to the dock where Foo Mung's boat was tied and he saw the deceased on board. He said four men invaded the sampan and about an hour later rushed off and ran past him. He walked to an eating house with three others and there met the gang again. After eating he returned to his boat and the next morning met the eight men, one of whom was the accused. Witness said he was given an ear-ring by Geo Pung, a member of the party who sold the gold position to a jeweller. Witness placed the

TAIT'S MANILA CARNIVAL OPENS TO-DAY

All The Fun Of The Fair For The Colony

Tait's Manila Carnival Show has arrived, and for the last two days scenes of great activity have been noticed at Kowloon.

We have been informed that the show will open on time, the big opening night having been fixed for to-day. The position is the same as last year, on that vacant ground by the side of the Peninsula Hotel, Kowloon.

The slogan of this organisation, which is "Fun for all and all for Fun" seems to be a very apt one, as they have in their Carnival such a choice of different forms of amusement that it seems impossible for anyone attending not to find something that just suits their taste, though we expect that most who do attend will not resist having a go at everything.

Five different riding devices have been lined up, and with each there is something different to the others. We think the "Dodgem" will be the most popular of these five, though a new ride called the "Whip" looks as though one should get a lot of fun out of it. There is also a "Caterpillar," "Big Wheel" and "Merry-go-round." Of the side shows we shall be able to say more about it after we have seen them, but by the photographs and press cuttings we have been shown, it looks as though a very strong display will be put on. The "Hawaiian" Cabaret show should prove a big draw. We are told that they were a tremendous success all through Java this year. Captain Charles Bath's "Monkeyland" should be well patronised, but then, performing monkeys always do draw big crowds. Why is it, we wonder? "Chandu," a great illusion full of mystery, is presented by Professor Raymond.

Quite a new thing in the Circus line is the Filipino Circus. This is their first visit here. Performing Fleas, introduced by Tom Tong, a clever Chinese showman, with a heavy American accent, a "Motor drome," in which some hair-raising motor-cycling is presented, and the big free act presented by Eddie Phillimore in his "Globe of Death."

These are the chief shows in the Carnival, so given good weather the show should have a very successful season here.

Jade in his pocket, and afterwards gave it to the accused. Asked to identify it he said he could not, but he recognised a piece of paper produced as having been wrapped round it.

On being asked if he wished to question the witness the accused said, "No," saying the evidence was a lot of lies.

Tai Nung, a boatwoman told of the party on her sampan the night prior to the murder. She failed to recognize the accused but did recognize the last witness.

Lan Wal, an account then testified to buying the gold setting of the jade-ear-ring but could not state who the man was who bought it from him.

Inspector Dorling, who was present when the accused was arrested, then outlined his actions in the case from the time the accused was seized and searched. The defendant refused to question the Inspector stating that he did not know why he was arrested. He denied certain statements in a document read by a police interpreter, which he was stated to have made, and added that beatings and fear had forced him into confessing and that he had been afraid to tell the Inspector this when asked to admit his supposed guilt because the constable standing around terrified him.

Papers were then produced by the witness by which he hoped to prove an alibi and as he asked for witnesses whom it was impossible at the time to produce the case was adjourned.

bowled with only one slip. Splendidwinde in the gully and Burn at fine leg. His first ball was hit for a single by "Teddy" while Duckitt played the rest of the over without scoring.

The umpires then agreed to make the next over the last one of the day, and off his first ball, Fincher scored a couple. The rest of the over was completed without any further score.

The position at the end of the day was that Hong Kong still wanted 134 to win with all wickets intact.

HOW BRITAIN'S TRADE GROWS

Details of September's Advance

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, October 13.

The complete Board of Trade returns for September, show the steady expansion of Britain's commerce in almost every direction. A particularly satisfactory feature is the growth of trade within the Empire.

Exports for last month exceeded in value the exports of September, 1932, by nearly £2,000,000. Of this total, manufactured goods accounted for £2,891,048, raw materials for £275,367, and food, drink, and tobacco for £157,924.

In every category, without exception, of manufactured exports increases were recorded last month, compared with September a year ago. These increases were:—

Non-ferrous metals £244,351
Iron and steel 600,375
Woolen and worsted yarns and manufactures 537,486
Miscellaneous 469,885
Machinery 424,898
Chemical, drugs, dyes & colours 419,223
Vehicles (including locomotives, ships, and aircraft) 208,778
Leather and manufactures 165,429
Cutlery, hardware, implements and instruments 148,817
Cotton yarns and manufactures 138,515
Electrical goods and apparatus 106,517
Apparel 70,883
Pottery, glass, abrasives, paper, cardboard, and manufactures 55,125
Rubber, manufactures 40,139
Coke and manufactured fuel 20,379
Wood and timber manufactures 14,956
Oils, fats, resins 5,570
Silk yarns and manufactures 476

In the fourteen categories into which exports of raw materials are subdivided only one decrease is recorded—namely, wood and timber, the value of which fell last month by 21.17, compared with September, 1932. The chief increases in raw materials were:

Coal, 242,532
Wool, 226,731
Non-ferrous ores and scrap, 26,938
Paper-making materials, 25,877
Hides and skins, 24,408

Of the £244,351 increase in the value of exported non-ferrous metals last month, compared with September a year ago, no less than £279,778 is due to additional exports of tin to the United States.

More Coal and Cotton.

The larger volume of Britain's coal and cotton exports is due to almost all her customers taking somewhat larger quantities. Canada and Argentina, in particular, notably increased their purchases of cotton.

The countries of Europe bought only £4,000 worth more of agricultural machinery. South Africa, India and New Zealand increased their purchases by £13,000. The Empire countries also took larger quantities of other types of machinery.

Imports and Expansion.

Although the adverse balance of trade as it stood a year ago was reduced last month by about £2,500,000, this was achieved without any drop in imports. On the contrary, imports last month were valued at £2,531,718, more than a year ago.

No less than £2,283,347 of this increase was in raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured—a fact which is in itself an infallible sign of expanding industry. The chief increases in values of imports were:—

Wood and timber £1,876,895
Raw cotton and cotton waste 724,216
Hides and skins 563,277
Leather and manufactures 281,875
Oils, fats and resins 254,237
Non-ferrous ores and scrap 242,883
Although imports of tobacco increased by £294,018, various imports of food and drink declined by £1,978,156, so that under the category of "food, drink and tobacco" there was, with other fluctuations of individual sub-divisions, a total drop in these imports of £219,826.

Asia Lands, Limited, has received the following report from their New York correspondents, E. A. Pierce & Co. There was little or nothing in this market. We find some ordinarily competent observers who think the market is going through a slow process of accumulation and while we may have some more backing and filling, the next definite break will be on the up-side.

Wheat: Poor foreign demand caused some easiness but buying then broadened. Trade bought on the scale-down.

Silver: Trading features were the talk of remonetisation, new speculative support attracted from this cause and the firmness of foreign markets.

Business Done: 650,000 shares.

FAILURE TO PRODUCE LICENSE

Junk Master Fined

Before Commander Newill at the Marine Court yesterday, Chan Chai Shum, master of the Trading Junk No. 2232 was charged with (a) unlawfully anchoring in the Southern Fairway of the Victoria Harbour and (b) failing to produce a license when requested.

Defendant pleaded guilty and said that the license was taken away by one of the boatmen of the junk by mistake.

His Worship did not believe him and after hearing the evidence, imposed a fine of $10 on the first charge and another of $5 on the second.

WATERLOGGED JUNKS

The Harbour Master has issued a warning to shipping to the effect that the master of the British steamer "Rosalia" Moller has reported having sighted two waterlogged junks on his voyage to this port.

The position of the derelicts which are considered to be a danger to navigation, is in Hainan Straits—Latitude 20 deg. 12' North, Longitude 110 deg. 24' East.

DIVING OPERATIONS

The Harbour Master has issued a notice to mariners to the effect that diving operations of Chin-sai-chui' foot bearing 301 deg distant 480 feet will be taken in hand by the Port Development Department during the period 13th to 18th instant.

All craft are warned to slow down and keep well clear of the diver's barge, which will fly a red flag.
